Question	Your Notes	\odot
Who is the typical course instructor?
Does the course instructor have any "real world" experience?
Is the course online or in person or a hybrid? Does the ADX test need to be done before starting?
What is the school's pass rate for the most recent class? What about the previous few classes?
Is there a practice FAA practical test that students will take?
Is the FAA practical test included in the course fee?
Does the school coordinate the FAA practical test?
What happens if a student is not "signed off" for the FAA practical test and needs extra training?
Does the school teach with Ops Specs? Does the school have "airline manuals" used for training?
If you need extra review at the end of the course, how much does it cost, or is it included?
Does the course teach Jeppesen charts or something else?
What kind of aircraft is utilized for the training course? Is a complete MEL/CDL made available for training?
What do program graduates say? What do current students say? Are scholarships offered?
How long as the school been in operation?
Who typically hires the program graduates?

Important: This checklist is not meant to cover/explain all situations or make your decision for you!
